Donation of Artifacts

The Humble Museum welcomes the donation of objects and artifacts that will further our mission of "saving the past for the future" of the Humble and Lake Houston area. Each donation is thoughtfully considered by the museum directors or governing committees.

USE OF DONATIONS

Only a percentage of the museum's collection can be displayed at any one time. Donated items are periodically rotated on display and periodically "at rest" in the museum's storage areas.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF DONATION

Typically, whenever the item is used for exhibition, credit is listed. You may designate who receives credit or choose to be anonymous.

LOANS

The museum does not typically accept items on loan. Once donated, the item becomes the property of The Humble Museum.

QUESTIONS

If you have any further questions about this process, please contact info@humblemuseum.com

REASONS THE MUSEUM MIGHT DECLINE THE DONATION OF AN OBJECT

Unfortunately, some donations may not be accepted. The following is a list of four common reasons we might decline the donation of an item:

The item is out of the museum's scope (wrong subject, geographic area, etc.)

Duplicate items are already in the museum's collection.

Poor condition: the museum may be unable to accept items that are in poor condition, tax the museum's conservation resources, or are too fragile to exhibit.

Large size: the museum may be unable to display larger items, or the item may exceed the museum's limited storage space.
